Roy Tymko shows Grand Champion 4-H steer

Heidi Tymko showed the Supreme Champion female, her brother Roy the Grand Champion steer and Kailey Wirsta both female and steer Reserve Champions at Saturday's Elk Point 4-H Beef Club Achievement Day at the C. G. Baker Arena.

The day started out with all 14 members and their leaders called into the ring by mistress of ceremonies Larissa Lupul for the 4-H pledge, before parents Heather Tymko, Annette McAnally, Mark Evans and Dale Pinder led in steers for the judging competition, with Lance Leachman of Big Gully Farm, Maidstone, Sask., who judged conformation, showmanship and grooming, pointing out what the members should be looking for in a champion steer. With their judging cards handed in, members headed for the stalls to put the finishing touches on their animals.

The female show was first on the agenda, with five young ladies proudly bringing in their yearling heifers for the judge's critique. Heidi Tymko placed first and Kailey Wirsta second in this round. Four of the five returned minutes later with their two-year-old cows with calves, this time with Kailey placing first and Heidi second, before Heidi brought in her three-year-old cow and calf for the judge's comments. The top two yearlings and two-year-olds joined the three-year-old in the ring for the determination of the over-all winners, with the championship and the Crestview Angus trophy going to Heidi for her outstanding yearling heifer, and the reserve championship and the K-Cow Ranch trophy going to Kailey for her two-year-old and her calf.

Following a lunch break and an opportunity for everyone to admire the STARS Calf, sponsored by Shamrock Valley Enterprises and 7 Pillars Ranch and to be auctioned at the St. Paul District 4-H Show and Sale, it was time for the steer weight classes.

Health Care staffing concerns addressed

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

The imminent retirement of Elk Point Health Care Centre facility manager Leanne Betts, a vacant care manager position and other staffing concerns were on the table when Elk Point and area's Physician and Staffing Recruitment and Retention Committee met with Alberta Health Services vice president of Rural North East Operations Wendy Harrison and director Lorraine Berube on Friday, May 16.

Berube, who retired from her Bonnyville-based position some months ago "is back for a few months to help us," Harrison told the committee, adding that Berube will take over Betts' position for the summer, and that applicants are being interviewed to take over the position in the fall. "I will be looking for the right person to come and help me."

The care manager "is a leadership position," Berube said. The manager oversees all programs related to health, she added. "We are interviewing someone next week, and it sounds promising."

"It's important that you know that we understand the situation," Harrison said in reference to the committee's concerns regarding nursing positions. "Nurses are always coming and going and changing positions. Sometimes nurses leave, sometimes they move within the facility."

Acute care has a full complement of RNs at this time, a medical leave position has been filled, and the acute care unit clerk position has been offered "to someone coming in with experience in that position," the committee learned. What is known as a 'Becky' position, which is 0.4 Full Time Equivalent, is currently vacant and is being advertised for a September starting date. Long-term care has one nurse off and another filling in with extra shifts, and home care has a new team leader and everything going well. Heritage Lodge now has 10 supportive care beds and that program is going well and is fully staffed.

"We're feeling much more positive about the staffing scenario," Harrison said. "A year ago we were a little more stressed."

Committee member Diana Anderson said there had been some anxiety about summer staffing, and its possible effect on bed availability. She was told that the acute care RNs will have vacations scheduled one at a time over the summer, and there is adequate staff to cover that. "We're not expecting to have staff shortages," Harrison said. "It's not the same as having a lot of vacancies."

Elk Point's staffing is "very stable compared to some communities," Berube added.

Heinsburg meeting addresses Laurier Lake robberies

BEVERLEY SMITH
 Review Contributor

A very successful meeting of Laurier Lake landowners, County of St. Paul officials, and Sgt. Dave Casey from the Elk Point Detachment of the RCMP was held on holiday Monday, May 19 in the Heinsburg Hall.

The meeting was organized by the County of St. Paul in conjunction with the Elk Point RCMP to discuss crime prevention, especially winter season robberies in the Laurier Lake area. The County expected 40 to 50 people and more than 100 attended.

The meeting was chaired by Glen Ockerman, the County Councillor for Division One, which includes the Laurier Lake area.

Sgt. Casey talked about 'shiny' things and alcohol as being the main attraction for break-ins. By 'shiny' things, he meant big-screen TVs, other electronics, tools and quads. He stressed that electronics should be taken home at the end of the season. Never leave alcohol in your cabin, and if your cabin is empty of things that would attract a casual thief, leave your curtains open so someone looking into the windows can see there is nothing to steal. Leave your fridge door open so people can see from outside that there is no alcohol in the fridge. Always store your quad keys and registration in a location far from the vehicle itself. Remove the quad battery if you are gone for the week. Chain your quad every night. If the quad is not to be removed for the winter, always remove the battery and, better yet, remove one or two tires.

Sgt. Casey assured residents that patrols are happening. Still, the best way to be secure is to know your neighbours' names and phone numbers. If you see unusual activity, get a licence plate number if possible.

It was also suggested that residents consider a security system or an infrared motion camera (Costco or Cabela's were mentioned as sources of this type of equipment).

Linda Meger from the County discussed the difficulties with contacting landowners and asked that property owners provide the county with their e-mail address and/or their phone number(s). If there is a break-in on their property, then the RCMP can far more easily contact the landowner. She also spent time reviewing how the 911 emergency address works.

Sheila Kitz, the County of St. Paul's CAO, spoke on the letter coming out with the tax notices. Residents of the lake will be getting a correction notice in the mail as the Transfer Station hours at Whitney Lake were incomplete.

Greater Lakeland Rural Crime Watch president Orest Sereda spoke about their program, which encourages rural residents to be extra eyes and ears for the RCMP in an effort to stop illegal activity in the area.

Glen Ockerman closed the meeting with a discussion of the major littering problem on RR 43; RR 43A and TWP 562. Anyone noticing garbage being tossed from a vehicle is asked to please try and get a license number and call the RCMP on the local, non-emergency number (724-3964) during business hours. A few more local concerns were also discussed before the meeting was closed.

Health Care

"Who determines the need for another doctor" in a community, Harrison was asked. AHS contacts the clinics every six months to see how long it takes to get an appointment, she noted. "Some places have a lengthy wait, and those are priority. Elk Point is one of the best towns in that regard, so (recruiters) don't pursue doctors for here aggressively."

"What if someone wants to set up a practice?" was the next question, and Harrison noted that if there is "a real need elsewhere," the physician might be steered in that direction. "It's all done through the physician recruiting. The recruiter would also talk to the doctors already in the community, "but she would never say no." The incoming doctor could set up an independent practice, but would have to discuss the matter of hospital privileges with the recruiter and with Dr. Albert Harmse, who is part of the North East management team.

MLA Shayne Saskiw, who chairs the committee, commented. "It's nice to have Wendy and Lorraine at our meeting," as this is the optimum way to get the reliable information the committee requires.

Mayor Parrish Tung added his thanks, and said "AHS is really helping us by giving us this information." He also thanked the committee for their hard work, which has at times, been "worse than a roller coaster. I'm glad all of us keep a level head."

This will be Harrison's last meeting with the committee, as she is retiring in the near future, and said, "I will miss working with you."

Updates from IHC

Further updates were forthcoming at last Tuesday's Interagency Health Committee meeting, where Betts reported that a newly hired RN wishes to do full time and more, all staff will be able to take at least some of their summer holidays and are working together to create a schedule.

Mayor Tung and Coun. Lorne Young said they were happy regarding the lessening of nursing concerns.

The mayor added that after questioning Harrison at the meeting he learned that there is a process regarding the bringing in a new doctor. AHS will support any doctor choosing to live and work in Elk Point, but they do have a recruitment specialist to assist with the process.

Journal and Review welcome new publisher

ST. PAUL JOURNAL STAFF

The St. Paul Journal and Elk Point Review will be introducing a new publisher to their staff, with the departure of long-time publisher Clare Gauvreau at the end of this month.

Former Journal editor Janani Whitfield will be returning to the staff and says she is looking forward to learning about the newspaper and the community in a different capacity.

"The St. Paul Journal is a fine quality community newspaper. I am excited to build on the tradition of providing top-notch coverage on the news, festivals, and day-to-day happenings of the area," she said.

After 13 years at the helm of the Journal, publisher of the Bonnyville Nouvelle and Elk Point Review, and group publisher for northern Alberta for Great West Newspapers, Gauvreau said she is ready for a new chapter in her life.

"There's no life like it," Gauvreau said of the newspaper business, admitting she will miss it. "More than anything else, I came to the realization that if I was going to change things up, I'd better do it sooner than later. I have no big plan other than to enjoy the summer and take it from there."

Gauvreau said the fact that Whitfield is taking the reins of the Journal is good news for readers and advertisers alike.

"The Journal will be in excellent hands. Janani knows the community and area and has a solid understanding of the makings of a good community newspaper. I'm looking forward to reading the Journal for many years to come."

Whitfield encouraged people to call the Journal and get in touch with her about what they see in the future for the newspaper.

"I have said this before, and I will say it again. This is not just our newspaper, but your newspaper as well. For those who live and work here, who call St. Paul and area home, we want to hear your stories and your views. I welcome your feedback and look forward to meeting you and hearing from you, our valued customers and advertisers, over the coming months."

County supports Elk Point Library

Elk Point Municipal Library manager Daphne Schnurer and Library Board chair Laverne Wilson were very happy to accept a $40,000 cheque from the County of St. Paul, presented by Division 2 Coun. Dwight Dach, who said county council appreciates the excellent service the library provides residents.

Elk Point 4-H Multi Club news

PARKER ALLEN
Club Reporter

It's been an exciting year for the Elk Point 4-H Multi-Club this year. All the clubs are doing fantastic and keeping busy. But some people are used to it by now, especially Val Gibson. This year she is being given a pin and award for her dedication and work that she has put in to being a 4-H leader for five years! That's something to be proud of!

In fact, all the Elk Point 4-Hers have something to be proud of, whether it be their sheep, their dogs, or their crafts, and they are ready to showcase it at Achievement Day, on June 12th. The viewing will be happening at 5:00 p.m. and the showing at 6:00 p.m. at the A.G. Ross arena. We all hope that you can make it!

- In Australia, in February each year they have a "FebFast". It's a charity movement which challenges you to take a 28-day break from alcohol and raise funds for youth addiction. It's a great idea to give up one thing in your life for a good cause. You don't have to wait till February to try it and the person to benefit from this fast would be you and your health and the charity of your choice.
- If you are over 65, getting a pneumonia shot is a good idea. This is especially important if you have a chronic illness. Those under 65 who have compromised immune systems or a chronic disease should also receive a pneumonia shot.
- Those who experience muscle pain from taking cholesterol-lowering "statin" drugs may have an alternate therapy in the future. Researchers are looking at creating antibodies that will circulate through the blood and lower the bad LDL cholesterol. Still in the trial phase but show much promise.
- The summer holiday season is fast approaching and it's a good time to review the contents of your first-aid kit to keep in your car during your travels. The kit should contain things like a digital thermometer, assorted bandages and tape, medication to reduce pain and fever, some hydrocortisone cream for stings and bites, some skin antiseptic and antihistamines.
- Our pharmacy staff can help you put together a first-aid kit and give advice on the age-appropriate medications to treat various symptoms.

EDITORIAL

Review welcomes new publisher

It's hard to say goodbye to a great publisher such as Clare Gauvreau, who not only has led the Review team through the past 13 years, but who also stepped in and covered everything from town council to the World Day of Prayer while the editor took several sessions of time off for eye surgery last year. We appreciate all she has done for us, more than we can say.

It is a pleasure to see that her replacement is someone we know well, and whom we know understands the intricacies of small towns and rural newspapers. That is a huge asset, as small rural newspapers are a genre of their own, and do not work on the same plane of existence as the big city dailies. Janani Whitfield knows this, and won't try to fit us into a city-style mould. Welcome to the team, Janani!

Way Back When...

Winds of destiny, bid, sod turnings

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF MAY 27 IN...

1984

F. G. Miller athletes placed third overall at the County of St. Paul senior track meet, collecting 11 firsts, 14 seconds, 15 thirds and 10 fourths, with Jim Mistol, Dale Rinas, Barbara Kulczycki, Alan Kulczycki, Michael Palamarek, Sally Adomaitis and Steve Schaap all winning their events.

1989

The "winds of destiny" brought rain and snow showers for graduation day of F. G. Miller High School's Class of 89, with class historians Joanne Wolanuk and Shaun Sheplawy introducing the 27 graduands and Angel Ference presenting the valedictory address.

1994

Memories of the past and dreams of tomorrow encircled FGM's Class of 1994, with Christian Kittlitz as their valedictorian, their kindergarten teacher Donna Dahmer as guest speaker, and a pre-grad tribute to former classmate Clayton Orr, in the form of a memorial tree they planted in Mural Park.

1999

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce supported the town's bid for the Northern Lights Library System headquarters, after a full hour of discussion and listening to the Town of Elk Point and the Elk Point Regional Culture Society outline their plans for the former Pan Canadian Petroleum building.

2004

Chamber of Commerce members learned about their 1792 counterparts as they visited Fort George and Buckingham House Historic Site, the area's first "shopping centre" in the days of the fur trade, and enjoyed a barbecue hosted by the Friends of the Forts, as the Forts opened for another season of visitation.

2009

Three levels of government – the Town of Elk Point, County of St. Paul and Province of Alberta – celebrated their cooperation on a wheelchair-accessible handivan for Elk Point and turned the first sod for Elk Point's new fire hall, with Mayor Parrish Tung and MLA Ray Danyluk also joining chamber of commerce vice-president Lesia Porcina to turn the sod for the Tourist Information Eco-Centre on a very memorable afternoon.

HISTORICAL HIGHLIGHTS

Council struggles with power, requisition hike in spring of '81

ELK POINT HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Review Contributors

April

Final approval in the provincial budget for the "major new provincial park Whitney/Ross/Laurier Lakes area of northeast Alberta" was part of the Albert Throne Speech, with the parks department still working on various possibilities as to layout.

A reported 'long-standing power struggle' between Mayor Mike Habiak and town council resulted in what Elk Point Sentinel editor Erik Nielsen called "an ugly furor" over the mayor's "alleged contradiction of a council resolution," with the meeting abruptly adjourned on a majority vote by councillors who vowed to do the same at future meetings if similar disagreements arose. The matter was settled at a special meeting three days later when the mayor apologized to council.

Dome Petroleum, Westmin Resources and Pan Canadian Petroleum outlined their plans for future development to about 150 area residents, the Elk Point Surface Rights Association and representatives of the Farmers' Advocate and Alberta Agriculture.

A local landmark that was Elk Point's only machinery dealership ceased operation, as Mike Habiak closed the doors of Elk Point Sales and Service after 34 years.

Town council got a nasty shock when town administrator Pat Vincent informed them that the County of St. Paul was requesting an 18 per cent hike in the school requisition, although they did note that the problem did not lie with the County but rather with the Alberta Education Act.

May

It was five months in coming, but the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce membership list for 1981 finally topped the 100 mark, after the executive set as one of its priorities the inclusion of the farming community in local activities.

Elk Point's industrial park became a reality, with Alberta Housing giving approval to go ahead with development of a 26-hectare parcel on the east side of town on land formerly owned by Peter Andrishak.

Forty-one serious young men and women faced a new beginning at F. G. Miller High School's graduation ceremonies, where valedictorian Brenda Pankow said on behalf of her classmates, "The time has come for us to meet the reality of the world."

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce was not pleased with a letter the town had received from MLA Dr. Charles Anderson that basically told the town to accept the site where the province wished to put the new courthouse or risk losing it. The chamber agreed to send the MLA a letter pointing out that Elk Point needs a facility that could be used more than twice a month for court, and asking that consideration should be given for a more permanent structure with offices for provincial services.

June

MLA Dr. Charles Anderson explained to the chamber of commerce that it was the Minister of Justice who threatened to take away the new courthouse, and he was forced to give up approaching the Minister about the possibility of a provincial building when it appeared the project could be cancelled if he pursued the matter further.

Brian Ference showed the grand champion steer, which also won the rate of gain trophy, and placed first in both showmanship and grooming at the 4-H Achievement Day, with Darryl Yuschyshyn showing the reserve champion steer.

Stray dogs in Elk Point "reacted with alarm" to the town's hiring of a dog control firm, "with one unlicensed pooch heard to exclaim that times were getting 'ruff'," according to Nielsen.

Elk Point learned that it would soon have an Elk Point based ambulance service, after town and county council and Fishing Lake Settlement representatives met with Don Schuler of Lakeland Ambulance Service to discuss prices for the service, with Frog Lake Band Council unable to attend the meeting, but sending word that they wished to participate as well.

4-H Achievement Day

Heidi Tymko claimed another first place ribbon in the lightest class for her steer, with first-year member Levi Quist placing second. Roy Tymko took top honours in the mid-weight class, with Kailey Wirsta placing second, while in the heavyweight class, Mathew McAnally placed first and Payden Wells second. Those six steers would return after the showmanship and grooming classes for the Parade of Champions.

The club's two senior members shared the wins in showmanship and grooming, Ashley Bristow placing first in showmanship and second in grooming, while Roy Tymko was first in grooming and second in showmanship. In the intermediate class, Nicole Bristow was first in showmanship, Heidi Tymko was first in grooming, and Mathew McAnally placed second in both competitions. The junior members were divided into first-year and more experienced groups in a preliminary judging round, with the top two from each group in the finals. Sisters Kailey and Lexi Wirsta shared the winner's circle, Kailey placing first and Lexi second in showmanship and Lexi first and Kailey second in grooming.

Tulsen Wells was next in the spotlight, to accept a huge trophy for his huge, 1,425-pound steer, which won the Rate of Gain award for a daily gain of 3.87 pounds.

The top six steers then entered the ring for the Parade of Champions, with Judge Leachman giving each one a final scrutiny before declaring Roy Tymko's steer the Grand Champion for the Elk Point Co-op trophy and Kailey Wirsta's steer the Reserve Champion for the Prairie Tech Oilfield Services trophy.

The final winners to be announced were those in the judging competition, also judged by Leachman, with Macey-Ann Marcoux placing first in the junior category, with Kailey Wirsta second and Lexi Wirsta third, while Heidi Tymko, Nicole Bristow and Dustin Pinder placed first to third in the intermediate group and Roy Tymko first and Ashley Bristow second in the seniors.

Ribbons for all competitions were sponsored by Shady Lawn Stock Farm. Boychuk Ventures, UFA, Shamrock Valley Enterprises, the C. G. Baker Arena and TD Canada Trust were also Achievement Day sponsors.

Show clerks were Lucille Smith and Donna Manley, ringwoman was Meagan Wirsta of the St. Paul 4-H Multi Club and weighmaster was Ron Wirsta.

The Elk Point 4-H Beef Club is led by Erin Wells, Kevin Wirsta, Mona Bristow and Janice Wirsta.

SPERD approves fragrance procedure

RYAN MCCrackEN
Review Contributor

St. Paul Education Regional Division No. 1 approved a new fragrance and scent-safe workplace procedure at its May 14 school board meeting.

"Principals/managers have a responsibility to ensure that all reasonable steps are taken to make the working environment safe for those with chemical sensitivities in the same manner that any other health issue or safety hazard is addressed," reads the administrative procedure.

"Exposure to fragrances/scents found in personal care products, cleaning products, perfume/cologne, and construction and maintenance products can create significant health problems in susceptible individuals including asthma attacks, migraine headaches, severe allergic reactions, inability to concentrate, loss of coordination, loss of consciousness or seizures."

SPERD Superintendent Glen Brodziak said the board has been addressing concerns regarding fragrance and scent sensitivity as they arise, but the approval of this new procedure will give the board an official framework to work with, effective immediately.

"The final stamp was yesterday. It is approved and we're good to go," said Brodziak. "It will go in our policy handbook immediately. If something ever arose we would handle it appropriately along these guidelines."

Trustee Rhonda LaFrance, who suffers from fragrance sensitivity, said she feels it is a good idea for the board to include an official procedure and signage around the schools.

"I know personally I have suffered from issues with scent and so I think it's a good idea," she said. "Even at the hospital I've noticed they have posters saying it's a scent free zone."

Curriculum redesign

SPERD hosted an evening of discussion regarding curriculum redesign on May 21 at Portage College.

The event, called Components of Curriculum Redesign and Engaging with Community Partners, was open to the community and focused on "the direction that Alberta Education is taking in regard to the developments of programs of study, assessment of student learning and teaching and learning resources," according to a release from Alberta Education.

The discussion was aimed at sharing insights and feedback on draft competency indicators, draft literacy and numeracy benchmarks, draft guidelines for infusing First Nations, Métis and Inuit perspectives into the curriculum and assignment capacity, digital rests, and student learning assessments.

"This is engaging community partners, all those intended include parents, homeschoolers, industry partners, curriculum coordinators, students and of course educators," said SPERD Board Chair Heather Starosielski. "It's always a very good information meeting, especially for local stakeholders."

On June 11, another meeting will be held for the Council of School Council to further discuss curriculum redesign, among other topics such as the budget.

"Who's invited is school council members, administrators, trustees and the local ATA president," said Brodziak. "Sometimes we give information on budgets, but we want to give them the tools they need so that they can run their school councils and get the information that they need, so they know their powers, they can give the schools the correct feedback and so they have some decision making authority."

Alberta Distance Learning

Alberta Education has renewed its contract with Alberta Distance Learning, and SPERD will continue to offer distance education to schools within the division.

"We use distance learning courses for some of schools that maybe can't get courses because of conflicts in their schedules, maybe sometimes some of our smaller schools have trouble offering as many courses," he said. "We will continue to use them in various means in some of our schools."

Brodziak pointed out that distance learning is very useful for the division, as it allows schools with smaller student and teacher populations to have access to different and unique courses.

"It gets a little bit more use in some of our smaller schools that may not have the student population and with that obviously they don't have the staff, so there might be less options available," he said. "It gives a student a chance to take, whether it be another language course, or one course that's popular throughout our division is the forensics course."

Megers celebrate 60 years

Grace and Alvin Meger celebrated their Diamond Wedding Anniversary on May 17 in the same yard where they celebrated their wedding reception, their 25th and 50th anniversaries and Grace's parents' 50th anniversary. For this occasion, however, a very special feature was added: a huge pavilion constructed from a parachute, and lighted by a handmade chandelier. (left)
